dead, we may rise to the life immortal; through him who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, now and ever. Amen*

O God, who makest glad with the yearly remembrance of the birth of thy only Son Jesus Christ: Grant that as we joyfully receive him as our Redeemer, we may with sure confidence behold him when he shall come again to be our Judge; who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, now and ever. Amen.

And is it True?

*And is it true,
This most tremendous tale of all,
Seen in a stained-glass window's hue,
A Baby in an ox's stall?
The Maker of the stars and sea
Become a Child on earth for me?*

*And is it true? For if it is,
No loving fingers tying strings
Around those tissued fripperies
The sweet and silly Christmas things,
Bath salts and inexpensive scent
And hideous tie so kindly meant,*

*No love that in a family dwells,
No carolling in frosty air,
Nor all the steeple-shaking bells
Can with this single Truth compare -
That God was man in Palestine
And lives today in Bread and Wine.*

Christ Church Book Club!

2010-2011

7:30pm, First Tuesday of the Month (with one exception – Monday, January 31st, 2011) An eclectic choice of various books, one main book or excerpt per evening along with reference to other books, for discussion and debate. Open to all and everyone! 1 hour. Where? Coronation Room, Christ Church Parish Hall, 7 Wentworth Street, Windsor, NS. Contact: David Curry 798-2454.

Dates: September 7th, 2010, October 5th, 2010, November 2nd, 2010, January 31st, 2011, March 1st, 2011, May 3rd, 2011.

Tuesday, September 7^h, 2010 “Vermeer’s Hat: The Seventeenth Century and the Dawn of the Global World” by Timothy Brook (available on-line from www.chapters.indigo.ca for $19.80 or from www.amazon.ca for $8.00). We begin where we had intended to end last spring with this intriguing book. Along with Shakespeare’s “The Tempest” and “The Merchant of Venice”, and John Darwin’s “After Tamerlane: The Rise and Fall of Global Empires, 1400-2000”, “Vermeer’s Hat” provides a fascinating and interesting account of earlier “global” worlds.

Tuesday, October 5th, 2010 “The Shallows: What the Internet is Doing to our Brains” by Nicholas Carr & “The Case for Books: Past, Present and Future” by Robert Darnton (The Shallows is available on-line from www.chapters.indigo.ca for $ 33.50 or from www.amazon.ca for $ 21.11; The Case for Books is available on-line from www.amazon.ca for $19.12). Questions about the digital medium, its strengths and weaknesses are usefully explored in these two books. Along with Alberto Manguel’s “A Reader on Reading,” especially his essay entitled St. Augustine’s Computer, one may begin to appreciate the significance of deep reading as well as appreciate what happens if book or print reading is neglected and ignored.

Tuesday, November 2nd, 2010. “Three Day Road” by Joseph Boyden (available on-line from www.amazon.ca for $ 14.60). This compelling story looks at the experience of two aboriginal Canadians who fought in the First World War. Like Timothy Findley’s classic anti-war novel “The Wars”, from which this book partly derives, it raises important though disturbing questions about our humanity, and about the effects of technology and the institutional form of cultural interactions. A book for the grey month of remembering, perhaps even for All Souls’ Day (Nov. 2nd).

Monday, January 31st, 2011. “Atheist Delusions: The Christian Revolution and its Fashionable Enemies” by David Bentley Hart (available on-line from www.amazon.ca for $ 12.96). A thoughtful and well-written examination of popular atheism that provides a useful way to think about this present phenomena that complements and enlarges upon similar themes in a number of other works such as “The Devil’s Delusion: Atheism & Its Scientific Pretensions” by David Berlinski, “God and the New Atheism” by John F. Haught, “The Disenchantment of the World: A Political History of Religion” by Marcel Gauchet.

Tuesday, March 1st, 2011. “Spoilt Rotten: The Toxic Cult of Sentimentality” by Theodore Dalrymple (available on-line from www.amazon.ca for $24.49, paperback available after September 13th). Blessed with a gift for concision and insight, Theodore Dalrymple is a prolific writer as well as a prison doctor. He has travelled widely and been in many of the world’s more troubled countries. He offers some challenging and trenchant criticisms of the contemporary culture and goes a long ways to providing a diagnosis for what the Canadian philosopher, Charles Taylor, long ago described as the malaise of modernity. Dalrymple focuses on the essential matter of moral principle and its absence or neglect. The cult of feeling, as he terms it, leaves out of the moral equation the doctrine of original sin.

Tuesday, May 3rd, 2011. “Nomad” by Ayaan Hirsi Ali; “Reading Lolita in Tehran” by Azir Nafisi (available on-line from www.amazon.ca for $ 16.00 and $ 13.83, respectively). Both these books reflect on the difficulties and the confusions (on all sides) of the encounter between some of the political and cultural forms of Islam and some of the forms of modernity in the secular culture of the democratic west. Nafisi’s Reading Lolita (2003) illustrates the power of literature which is capable of providing a powerful self-critique of cultures and individuals so necessary to civilized life. Ayaan Hirsi Ali’s Nomad, a sequel to her book Infidel, is both a deeply personal account of her rejection of Islam and a cri de coeur for compassion and respect that, paradoxically, hints at the place for religion in the shaping of political culture.

Dorothy L. Sayers' radio plays, "A Man Born to be King", provide an interesting meditation upon Christ's Incarnation as seen in the light of the historical and political realities of the 4th century, out of which cauldron of controversy the great creedal doctrines of the Christian faith were forged. This hour-long selection of readings and reflections may serve as an Advent preparation for the King of all Creation who comes in the lowliness of a child and before whom the magi-kings bow down and worship.

Live large ... Pray large

“Almighty and everlasting God, who art always more ready to hear than we to pray, and art wont to give more than either we desire or deserve, pour down upon us the abundance of thy mercy...” It is all there in the superlatives of grace, in the largeness of divine mercy and truth. “I am come,” Jesus says, “that they might have life” and, even more, “that they might have it more abundantly.” Abundance. The largeness of God’s mercy humbles and exalts us in one sublime motion; it carries us like a wave into the presence of God. Prayer. Not groveling and pleading. Not bleating and whining. No. Something much larger. Something which is alive to the largeness of God. The big wave is prayer in the Spirit that brings the Word to birth in our hearts.

But only by being open to the majesty and the wonder of God. “Behold, a door was opened in heaven.” Prayer is like the surfer’s wave that carries us into the worship of God, the God who is more than the vain imaginations of our hearts, the God before whose sight “a thousand years ... are but as yesterday when it is past.” The God who is always more and never less gives “more than we either desire or deserve, pour[ing] down upon us the abundance of [his] mercy.” The Book of Common Prayer does not contain God; it is the wave that carries us into the largeness of the divine presence. Ride the wave.

*The Book of Common Prayer
Live the Life. Pray large.*

Church-Going

Once I am sure there's nothing going on
I step inside, letting the door thud shut.
Another church: matting, seats, and stone,
And little books; sprawlings of flowers, cut
For Sunday, brownish now; some brass and stuff
Up at the holy end; the small neat organ;
And a tense, musty, unignorable silence,
Brewed God knows how long. Hatless, I take off
My cycle-clips in awkward reverence,
Move forward, run my hand around the font.
From where I stand, the roof looks almost new-
Cleaned or restored? Someone would know: I don't.
Mounting the lectern, I peruse a few
Hectoring large-scale verses, and pronounce
"Here endeth" much more loudly than I'd meant.
The echoes snigger briefly. Back at the door
I sign the book, donate an Irish sixpence,
Reflect the place was not worth stopping for.

Yet stop I did: in fact I often do,
And always end much at a loss like this,
Wondering what to look for; wondering, too,
When churches fall completely out of use
What we shall turn them into, if we shall keep
A few cathedrals chronically on show,
Their parchment, plate, and pyx in locked cases,
And let the rest rent-free to rain and sheep.
Shall we avoid them as unlucky places?

Or, after dark, will dubious women come
To make their children touch a particular stone;
Pick simples for a cancer; or on some
Advised night see walking a dead one?
Power of some sort or other will go on
In games, in riddles, seemingly at random;

But superstition, like belief, must die,
And what remains when disbelief has gone?
Grass, weedy pavement, brambles, buttress, sky,
A shape less recognizable each week,
A purpose more obscure. I wonder who
Will be the last, the very last, to seek
This place for what it was; one of the crew
That tap and jot and know what rood-lofts were?
Some ruin-bibber, randy for antique,
Or Christmas-addict, counting on a whiff
Of gown-and-bands and organ-pipes and myrrh?
Or will he be my representative,

Bored, uninformed, knowing the ghostly silt
Dispersed, yet tending to this cross of ground
Through suburb scrub because it held unspilt
So long and equably what since is found
Only in separation -- marriage, and birth,
And death, and thoughts of these -- for whom was built
This special shell? For, though I've no idea
What this accoutred frowsty barn is worth,
It pleases me to stand in silence here;

A serious house on serious earth it is,
In whose blent air all our compulsions meet,
Are recognised, and robed as destinies.
And that much never can be obsolete,
Since someone will forever be surprising
A hunger in himself to be more serious,
And gravitating with it to this ground,
Which, he once heard, was proper to grow wise in,
If only that so many dead lie round

Philip Larkin

O God of unchangeable power and eternal light: Look favourably upon thy whole Church, that wonderful and sacred mystery; and by the tranquil operation of thy perpetual providence carry out the work of men's salvation; that things which were cast down may be raised up, and that all things may return into unity by whom all things were made, even thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

Amen.

*Remember the faith that took men from home
At the call of a wandering preacher.
Our age is an age of moderate virtue
And of moderate vice
When men will not lay down the Cross
Because they will never assume it.
Yet nothing is impossible, nothing,
To men of faith and conviction.
Let us therefore make perfect our will.
O God, help us.*
